

Fiddler crabs are small land crabs. Fiddlers dig burrows just below the water line on muddy shores of salt marshes or fresh water streams. Before each high tide, they scurry into their burrows and plug the opening with sand pellets. This plug holds air in and keeps water out.